

SUMMER VOLUNTEER OPPORTUNITY!

POINT REYES NATIONAL SEASHORE

*Adult Western Snowy Plover on a nest (top).
Western Snowy Plover male with chicks (middle).
Newborn chicks (bottom).*

Help protect the Western Snowy Plover!

Contribute to the conservation of this federally threatened species by assisting park managers and biologists via public outreach, education in the field, and data collection.

Duties include, but aren't limited to:

- Staff trailhead information tables, serving as park interpretive volunteers
- Educate visitors about the natural history, plight, and conservation of the snowy plovers
- Monitor snowy plovers and nests near trailheads
- Collect data to help inform park biologists

Volunteer benefits:

- Play an important part in the conservation of an endangered species
- Add volunteer experience relevant to your field of study to your resume
- Free volunteer appreciation BBQ
- Spend time outside in nature!

Training: One orientation with park biologists on Saturday May 6th, 2023 in addition to on-the-job training with senior volunteers. No prior bird knowledge necessary!

Time Commitment: At least 4 weekend days between Memorial Day (May) and Labor Day (Sept)

For more information, contact Matt Lau
(matt_lau@nps.gov) information or scan the QR Code

